VILLAGE OF RUSHVILLE, N.Y. -- A proposal to dissolve the Village of Rushville was defeated at the polls Tuesday.

By a vote of 179 "No" to 96 "Yes," the dissolution will not go forward. The village has about 700 residents, and less than half turned out for the vote.

A big issue for those on both sides of the debate was taxes.

Some neighbors believe the real work is still ahead.

"I want everyone to see that we're still neighbors, we're still people of Rushville and that no matter what, we can all still be friends," said resident Kristopher
